

The Brighter Skin Solution: Silk Peel Dermalinfusion

The Blonde and The Brunette are always in search of new skin treatments especially in the winter months or for a special Valentine's Day glow. I went into the The Spa at Beverly Hills Plastic Surgery last week for my monthly facial (you know that's a regular part of my beauty routine) and tried a new machine.

It was my first time with a new facialist, Sophia Phan, who was honestly the best one I have ever experienced. She diagnosed my skin type and explained her treatment recommendation. Apparently there are several new state of the art machines, with exceptional technology, that have the ability to improve your skin. One of the treatments that she recommended for me was the SilkPeel Dermalinfusion. It's very different from other treatments. She says so many of her patients use it and frequently. This is how it works:

After thoroughly cleansing my skin, she began the first part of the treatment. The machine has a patented hand piece, with a diamond tip, that exfoliates the skin and simultaneously infuses specialized patient-specific treatment serums, deep into the skin, to maximize effectiveness. Note the facialist specifically chooses a treatment serum that contains vitamins, antioxidants and other therapeutic ingredients according to what your skin needs. The machine didn't hurt at all, it felt like soft, silky granules rubbing my face as the luxurious serum is being infused. Your skin is now prepared for the rest of the customized facial. So relaxing. I just had to share this skin saving secret with you! My skin really is brighter and clearer with no irritation or redness.

The spa is gorgeous and every time I go there I leave with a healthy, glow and smoother skin. What more can a girl want?
